BRITISH WARSHIPS SWEEP GERMAN LINES NEAR COAST

FORCE WAY OVER CANAL

Germans Are Gaining in Belgium.

FOLLOW INLAND ROUTE

Inlanders Leave Coast to Avoid Fire From Warships.

London, Oct. 26.—Official reports issued from German and French headquarters say that the Germans, finding it impossible to advance along the coast toward Dunkirk on account of the fire from the British and French warships, took a route a little more inland and have succeeded in crossing the Yser canal, which the Belgians have been defending stubbornly for a week past, to the west of Dixmude.

They also have made progress to the northeast of Ypres and still are in possession of Roulers, toward which the allies were advancing last week and at one time were reported to have captured. The Germans claim to have taken 500 British troops in the fighting in this neighborhood.

Of the gains claimed by the Germans the French reports made no mention, dismissing the battle with: "There is no change to report between the sea and the region around Arras."

To add to the trials of the troops a short spell of fine weather has given place to another downpour of rain, which will convert the lowlands of Flanders into great lakes.

Of the battles on the center and left wing the German report does not speak, but the French declare they are maintaining their positions in the Argonne and on the heights of the Meuse and have destroyed three more German batteries. From unofficial sources it is learned that the French have made some advance in the mountains along the Alsace border.

Hard Fighting in Poland.

In Poland a very heavy battle now is in progress between the fortresses of Ivangorod and Radom. The Germans and Austrians, who were defeated in their first attempt to cross the Vistula before the former city, have made a stand against the Russians. The latter had followed in the hope of destroying them.

Both sides, according to their own reports, have made prisoners and captured guns, but the battle, which extends over a front of twenty-six miles, has not yet been decided.

The Austrians still are making a bold effort to cross the River San and are carrying on a splendid fight south of Przemyśl in the hope of reaching and recapturing Lemberg.

The Montenegrins admit that they have had to withdraw to their previous positions along the Bosnian frontier after an attack by a superior force of Austrians. The latter, in fact, seem to be fighting in a manner of which their first performances in the war hardly gave promise.

Turkey, which it was believed at one time had decided to throw in her lot with Germany, again has assured the ambassadors of Great Britain, France and Russia that she intends to maintain her policy of neutrality. Turkey, however, continues her military activities and is collecting transport animals, which, it is said, are destined for the Egyptian frontier. It is considered that strong Russian forces on the Turkish border has influenced her.

The events in the eastern theater of the war are described as not yet having entered a decisive phase. It is reported a battle continues before Przemyśl and now has assumed the shape of a crescent with the Austrians vigorously attacking the north and south portions.

GENERAL DOUGLAS IS DEAD

Chief of British Imperial General Staff Passes Away.

London, Oct. 26.—General Sir Charles Hittingham Horsley Douglas, chief of the imperial general staff and first military member of the army council, is dead.

General Sir Charles Douglas was appointed chief of staff of the British army April 1 last, after the resignation of Sir John French, the present commander of the expeditionary forces on the continent.

Sir Charles was born in 1850 and had served in all Great Britain's wars since the Afghan campaign of 1879. He had been inspector general of the home forces since 1912, when he was made chief of the general staff.

DAMAGE WROUGHT BY BRITISH GUNS HEAVY

Reported Germans Lost 4,000 Killed and Wounded.

Dover, via London, Oct. 26.—The British fleet chose Trafalgar day (Oct. 21) to commence the bombardment of the Germans advancing along the Belgian coast. Firing started at 6 a. m. and continued without intermission for twelve hours.

The range of the ships' guns enabled them to shell the German trenches three miles inland and they did great execution to the batteries placed among the sand dunes. They destroyed a German field battery, dispersed a German bridging train which had been assembled to force a crossing of the Yser, blew up an ammunition column, killed General von Tripp and all of his staff to the west of Westende and compelled the Germans to evacuate their position before Nieuport.

The firing was so rapid that some guns discharged fourteen projectiles a minute. At the end of the day the whole coast from Nieuport to the Westende, which had been strongly held by the enemy, was evacuated. It is reported that on that day alone the Germans lost 4,000 killed and wounded.

TRYING TO GAIN VICTORY

Germans Bringing Up All Available Reinforcements.

Paris, Oct. 26.—The success of the allies in repulsing the furious attacks of the Germans, as indicated in Saturday's official statement, was the basis of encouragement to the French and English when the battle of the North was resumed.

The Germans, in a mighty effort to gain a victory, continue rushing all the reinforcements that can be spared.

Duke of Roxburghe Wounded.

London, Oct. 26.—The Duke of Roxburghe, who married May Golet of New York, was severely wounded in a recent engagement, not slightly hurt, as was reported. His condition is favorable, but recovery is slow.

Special to The Dispatch:—

Paris, Oct. 26, 11:38 a. m.—Meager advices from the front indicated today that the Germans, who have crossed the Yser River in enormous force are pressing slowly forward. At other points in the North and Northeast of Ypres and between Lille and Armentieres the German offensive, while most energetic, is reported checked. Reinforcements have been sent to the North and British warships continue to sweep the Germans with deadly fire wherever they try to push their line back to the coast.

LONDON REVIEWS WAR OPERATIONS

Special to The Dispatch:—

London, Oct. 26 (3:10 p. m.)—French assert the Allies have arrested the progress of the German force crossing the river Yser and declare that at no point on the western wing have invaders penetrated their lines.

Paris claims a coup by the Allies in obtaining positions to command the road of the valley of Aisne which cut communications between the army of the German Crown Prince and the remainder of the German lines. In the East the Russians are reported as fortifying Lemberg, the capital of Galicia, against the Austrian advance.

PRISON PROBE IS ORDERED

Governor Glynn Hears Banker Is Granted Special Privileges.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Governor Glynn ordered John H. Riley, state superintendent of prisons, to investigate charges that Daniel A. Sullivan, formerly president of the Mechanics and Traders bank of New York city, is enjoying special privileges at Sing Sing prison, where he is confined. Sullivan was convicted of misappropriating funds.

During the last week stories that Sullivan was allowed to transact private business from the prison and that he frequently was seen riding in an automobile have been circulated.

SESSION OF CONGRESS ENDS

Cotton Relief Measures Will Come Up in December.

Washington, Oct. 26.—After nearly nineteen months of continuous sessions since the inauguration of Woodrow Wilson the Sixty-third congress adjourned its session after a collapse of prolonged efforts to procure cotton growers relief legislation. Leaders in this movement agreed to adjourn, however, only on condition that pending cotton relief measures will have right of way in the house when congress reconvenes Dec. 7.

The house adopted a resolution authorizing the appointment of a committee to investigate cotton conditions in the South and to report possible measures for federal aid by Dec. 15. On the committee were Representatives Mann, Austin, Henry, Lever, Heflin, Bell of Georgia and Langley.

FRENCH BOMB DROPS NEAR CROWN PRINCE.

Paris, Oct. 26.—Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany recently was the target of a French aeroplane bomb, but escaped uninjured, says the Excelsior's correspondent at Vitry-Le-François, department of Marne.

"The town of Revigny, twelve miles from here, has been the headquarters of the crown prince," the correspondent says. "Recently a French aeroplane flew over the place and dropped a bomb, killing fifteen people and injuring twenty-two, but the crown prince was not hit."

COWS PRODUCE BIG WEALTH

856,047 Animals Yield Product That Returns Many Millions.

St. Paul, Oct. 26.—During 1913 there were 856,047 cows giving milk in Minnesota, according to figures made public by Joel G. Winkler, dairy and food commissioner.

The bossies turned out 418,579,363 pounds of milk. The cream amounted to 325,000,396 pounds and butter fat 101,647,401 pounds. For this amount of butter fat patrons paid $32,067,032, or an average of 31.54 cents a pound.

During the year there were 112,117,912 pounds of butter made in the Minnesota creameries. The price this amount of butter brought was $34,995,884.97.

GERMANY MAY INVADE CANADA

Count von Bernstorff Claims That Privilege.

ONLY TEMPORARY FOOTHOLD

Teuton Ambassador Asserts That Inasmuch as Canadian Troops Have Been Sent to Europe the Landing of German Forces in the Dominion Would Not Be a Violation of the Monroe Doctrine.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Germany's right to land troops in Canada, and thus obtain at least a temporary foothold in the American continent, was upheld by Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador here, who declared this would not be a violation of the Monroe doctrine.

The ambassador suggested that, as Canada is sending soldiers to Europe to fight against his country, the United States should not consider it in any sense an infringement on the Monroe doctrine if Germany should land an armed force on Canadian soil.

Discussing his now much talked of note of Sept. 3 to the state department here, explaining the attitude of the German government toward the Monroe doctrine, Count von Bernstorff asserted that Great Britain had officially called the attention of the United States state department to reports that Germany might attempt, if successful in the war, to colonize in South America.

Officials at the department said later they did not recall that Great Britain had made any such charge, but the ambassador explained that his notes had been intended largely as a reply to this action by Great Britain, as well as to reports which that country had been spreading in other ways that Germany has designs on South America.

REDMOND PLEDGES IRISH AID

But Volunteers Must Be at New Government's Disposition.

Belfast, Ireland, Oct. 26.—Addressing a meeting of Irish volunteers John E. Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, said when the Irish government comes into being the volunteers must be absolutely at the disposal of that government and he declared that in spite of the emigration Ireland would maintain her place as a fighting nation.

"Ireland's rights," said Mr. Redmond, "are not to be defended merely within the Irish shores. Ireland would be humiliated if after the war it had to be admitted that the safety and liberty of Ireland had been guarded by the sacrifices of other men, while Irishmen remained at home and took none of the risks."

Thirty-five thousand men from all parts of Ireland have joined the army since the beginning of the war, Mr. Redmond added.

Great Britain Will Not Interfere With American Goods.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Sir Edward Grey, British minister for foreign affairs, has assured the United States through Ambassador Page at London that England will not interfere with American cotton shipments as contraband of war.

This was announced at the state department.

This attitude of the British government will permit the safe movement of American cotton to any point, including Germany, where a market may be found.

DR. AND MRS. CARMAN.

Jury Is Unable to Agree in Strange Murder Case.

CARMAN JURY UNABLE TO REACH VERDICT

Ten Jurors Are Said to Have Favored Acquittal.

Mineola, N. Y., Oct. 26.—The jury in the trial of Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman, accused of slaying Mrs. Louise Bailey last June 30, disagreed and was discharged. Ten jurors are said to have voted for acquittal and two for conviction of murder in the first degree on the final ballot. The jury was out about thirteen hours.

It is unlikely that Mrs. Carman ever will be brought to trial again. Before the jury came in District Attorney Lewis J. Smith said that if it stood even 8 to 4 for acquittal it was improbable that the defendant would be retried.

Attorneys for Mrs. Carman will make an application to have her admitted to bail. Such a motion will not be opposed by the district attorney.

The defendant is on the verge of a complete physical breakdown, following a collapse in the courtroom after the jury was discharged. It was said at the Nassau county jail here that Mrs. Carman had been crying constantly ever since she was returned to her cell.

FORCE PASSAGE OF CANAL

Germans Report Further Progress on Belgian Soil.

Amsterdam, via London, Oct. 26.—A Berlin dispatch received here gives a report from the German general headquarters. It says:

"The Yser-Ypres canal between Nieuport and Dixmude was crossed Saturday by further strong German forces after heavy fighting."

"Eastnortheast of Ypres the enemy has received reinforcements, but in spite of this our troops have advanced at several points, capturing about 500 British, among them twenty-eight officers, including a colonel."

"In the east our forces have begun an offensive movement on Augustow. Near Ivangorod our troops are fighting jointly with the Austro-Hungarians and have taken 1,800 prisoners."

Amsterdam, via London, Oct. 26.—An official dispatch from Berlin says that General von Moltke, who is suffering from an affection of the liver, is greatly improved.

GREATEST LOSS FALLS ON SOUTH

Republicans Reduce National Convention Delegations.

1916 CALL ON NEW BASIS

Chairman Hilles Announces That Enough State Gatherings Have Ratified the Change and That the Next National Convention Will Contain Eighty-nine Less Delegates Than the One Held in 1912.

New York, Oct. 26.—A bitter fight, waged since 1880, to reduce the representation of Southern states in Republican national conventions, has been won. Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the Republican national committee, announced that the call for the convention for 1916 will be on the new basis, which reduces the number of delegates by eighty-nine. Most of this loss falls on the South.

The plan, proposed at the annual meeting of the national committee in Washington last December, was made effective, Mr. Hilles said, through its ratification by conventions in states which cast a majority of votes in the present electoral college, according to its adoption stipulated by the committee.

Every state convention held since last December gave its assent to the plan except that in Texas, which rejected it. The states which adopted it cast 250 out of a total of 531 votes in the electoral college, or twenty-four more than a majority.

Approval was given by conventions in Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Vermont, Washington and West Virginia.

In the next national convention the delegation of Alabama will be reduced by 8, Arkansas by 3, Florida 4, Georgia 11, Louisiana 8, Mississippi 8, New York 2, North Carolina 3, South Carolina 1, Tennessee 3, Texas 16, Virginia 8, Hawaii 4, Porto Rico 2 and Philippine islands 2.

"The new plan," said Chairman Hilles, "will eliminate conflicts between the rules of the party and the laws of several states and will reduce the number of contesting delegations."

Kentuckian Mortally Wounded by Highwayman.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 26.—Edward Sheffer of Morrisonville, Ky., was shot and mortally wounded by highwaymen while he was walking on the state university grounds with a young woman. The highwaymen, who previously had held up four other students, were masked and two in number. When they approached Sheffer he thought they were hazers and asked, "What's the joke?" They did not wait, but both fired, the shots penetrating the abdomen. It is hardly possible for him to live.

Berlin, Oct. 26 (by wireless to Sayville, L. The Germans have begun slowly but definitely to push southward, it is declared here.

The events in the eastern theater of the war are described as not yet having entered a decisive phase. It is reported a battle continues before Przemyśl and now has assumed the shape of a crescent with the Austrians vigorously attacking the north and south portions.

DELIVER COUNTER ATTACKS

Allies Claim to Have Punished Germans Severely.

Paris, Oct. 26.—The German masses at La Basse appear, from the desperate efforts which they are making, to be trying to shake themselves loose from the close grip of the allies, who menace their communications from there and from Armentieres. Both armies received reinforcements, but the allied lines withstood formidable shocks and delivered severe counterattacks.

The serious nature of the conflict can be gathered from the fact that in front of one British infantry division in a very small space over 1,500 German bodies were found after an engagement, while six hundred German prisoners were taken by the British in the course of one attack.

1916 CALL ON NEW BASIS

Chairman Hillis Announces That Enough State Gatherings Have Ratified the Change and That the Next National Convention Will Contain Eighty-nine Less Delegates Than the One Held in 1912.

New York, Oct. 26.—A bitter fight, waged since 1880, to reduce the representation of Southern states in Republican national conventions, has been won. Charles D. Hillis, chairman of the Republican national committee, announced that the call for the convention for 1916 will be on the new basis, which reduces the number of delegates by eighty-nine. Most of this loss falls on the South.

The plan, proposed at the annual meeting of the national committee in Washington last December, was made effective, Mr. Hillis said, through its ratification by conventions in states which cast a majority of votes in the present electoral college, according to its adoption stipulated by the committee.

Every state convention held since last December gave its assent to the plan except that in Texas, which rejected it. The states which adopted it cast 250 out of a total of 531 votes in the electoral college, or twenty-four more than a majority.

Approval was given by conventions in Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Vermont, Washington and West Virginia.

In the next national convention the delegation of Alabama will be reduced by 8, Arkansas by 3, Florida 4, Georgia 11, Louisiana 8, Mississippi 8, New York 2, North Carolina 3, South Carolina 7, Tennessee 3, Texas 16, Virginia 8, Hawaii 4, Porto Rico 2 and Philippine islands 2.

"The new plan," said Chairman Hillis, "will eliminate conflicts between the rules of the party and the laws of several states and will reduce the number of contesting delegations."

TAKES HOLDUP FOR JOKE

Kentuckian Mortally Wounded by Highwayman.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 26.—Edward Sheffer of Morrisonville, Ky., was shot and mortally wounded by highwaymen while he was walking on the state university grounds with a young woman. The highwaymen, who previously had held up four other students, were masked and two in number. When they approached Sheffer he thought they were hazers and asked, "What's the joke?" They did not wait, but both fired, the shots penetrating the abdomen. It is hardly possible for him to live.

To Probe Millionaire's Death.

New York, Oct. 26.—Coroner Heinenstein ordered an autopsy performed on the body of Beach Thompson, banker and clubman of Menlo Park, San Francisco, who died suddenly in the Hotel Biltmore here. Thompson, it was said, had been ill for some time, but had not had treatment other than the services of a Christian Science healer, of which faith he was a member.

Claus A. Theorin, present deputy sheriff, as has been heretofore announced, is a candidate for the office of sheriff. Careful inquiry as to his record as a deputy brings out strongly the fact that he is an exceptionally well qualified official; that he is thoroughly competent and has performed the duties and officiated in the sheriff's capacity in a most thorough and acceptable manner for all requiring his services. Particularly is this true when court is in session, which means expedition and satisfactory thought to these statements. Com-

Cobb's Humorous Retort.
When Irvin Cobb and four other newspaper correspondents, among them
John T. McCutcheon of the Chicago Tribune, had been captured by, and were under the surveillance of, the Germans, they proposed to continue with the Germans, and the officer in charge remonstrated. "But we had no correspondents with the German army." Cobb was not at all perturbed.
Rolling his cigar comfortably in the corner of his mouth and looking up to see if there were any signs of war, he affably assured the perplexed officer, "Well, you've got five now!"

URGE CHRISTMAS PEACE.

Ministers Want Powers to Declare
Armistice on Christ's Birthday.

The London Daily Mail received a dispatch from its correspondent in New York saying that leading clericals and educators there have under discussion a movement to have the warring powers agree to an armistice on Christmas day.

The correspondent said of the movement:
"This idea is in its infancy, but it has already enlisted the sympathies of such distinguished leaders as Cardinal Farley, Bishop David H. Greer of the Episcopal diocese of New York and Rabbi H. Pereira Mendes of the Jewish synagogue.

"The larger movement looking to a permanent cessation of hostilities is at present subordinated apparently to the movement for an armistice on Christmas day.
"Bishop Greer said details of the plan were still to be worked out, but that probably, if the movement met with the expected support of all creeds and denominations, the proposal for a Christmas armistice would be made through President Wilson or the state department at Washington.
"The movement is all the more remarkable in that the idea should have come from a rabbi, Dr. Mendes."

To slice bacon properly always place it rind down and do not attempt to cut through the rind. When you have the desired number of slices slip the knife under them and cut them free from the rind, keeping as close to it as possible.

THE SPANISH COMPANY

Short Sketches of the Various Members of the Company Appearing in Brainerd Oct. 29.

The Spanish Company of the C. W. Best Artists' Series appears in Brainerd Thursday evening, Oct. 29, at the Citizens State bank hall under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus. Antonio Sala, violoncellist, although only nineteen, is a remarkable young artist who has already become 'cellist at the Spanish court, a coveted honor that is sought by many but bestowed on few. That Sala is exempt from military service and able to make the present tour with the C. W. Best Company is due to the intervention of King Alfonso. Sala's reputation is not confined to Spain. In Paris he has been declared by competent authorities to be one of the finest violoncellists in the world.

M. Follmer is one of the most eminent and gifted tenors before the public today. By reason of his magnificent voice, dramatic power and artistic interpretations, he is destined as a coming star in grand opera. For this reason, the present tour may be his last under the Best management. M. Follmer's training has been broad and thorough. Even as a mere child, he gave promise of unusual talent. Jean De Reszke, the world famous tenor of Paris and Herman De Vries of Chicago, noted star of grand opera and coacher of artists, have helped foster M. Follmer's fine native talent.

Helen Watson Powers, soprano, has won her distinguished position through an unusually rich musical equipment. Everything that makes for artistic success is hers—a beautiful voice, a magnetic personality, a warm, genial, artistic temperament, and an unusual enthusiasm for her art. Fitted for the concert stage by long years of study under instructors of the highest rank, and a wide experience, Mrs. Powers has acquired the scientific understanding of music that enables her to make the most effective use of her fine native talent. An important feature of her training for concert singing has been her solo work in leading church choirs of Chicago where she makes her home.

Miss Helen Desmond, pianist, of Chicago, comes to the Best Artists' Series thoroughly equipped for concert work. Possessed since early childhood of unusual musical gifts, she has been so successful in their cultivation that her appearance in public is an event of more than local importance. One of the latest tributes to her gifts was her engagement last January as soloist for the Chicago Symphony orchestra in a concert under the direction of Glenn Dillard Gunn. She was warmly and sympathetically received by a most critical audience accustomed to hearing the world's greatest vocalists and instrumentalists.

A marriage license was issued Saturday to William Johanson and Jennie Jacobs.

Miss Elizabeth Lelless, niece of Mrs. Wilmer Holmes, returned today to her home in Vandergriff, Pennsylvania, after a pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. Holmes.

Jacobs-Johansen

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the parsonage of the Swedish Baptist church Saturday evening when Miss Jennie Jacobs and Mr. Wm. Johansen, both of Crosby, were married, the ceremony being performed by Rev. A. B. Colvin. Witnesses were Rev. A. Wickland, of Fargo and Mr. A. B. Colvin.

The happy couple left for Minneapolis where they will spend their honeymoon. The bridegroom is a baker in business in Crosby and in that town they will make their home. The Dispatch joins their many friends in wishing them all possible happiness and prosperity.

Little Oddities In the European War News

French military surgeons in Lyons called for volunteers to give their blood to save the wounded soldiers from the effects of hemorrhages and had a gratifying response. Fifty persons offered themselves immediately.

On a British torpedo boat destroyer in a recent action the ship's pet monkey, evidently not relishing the noise and scurry, became terrified. He flew into the galley and climbed on the top shelf. There he hastily selected a big fish sancepan and hid himself until the firing ceased.

Miss Felice Gunther, stenographer in the office of the Austro-Hungarian consulate general in New York, who has returned from an extended trip in Austria and Hungary, says that Austrian soldiers going to the front are reported to have been supplied with vials of poison to take in case of capture by the Servians to escape torture at their hands.

"The coolest thing I ever saw in action was that of a big highlander, who milked a cow under rifle and shell fire to get something for his wounded mates to drink when the water ran out," says Private Clarke of the King's Royal rifles in a letter home.

MRS. CARMAN'S TRIAL RECALLS BAILEY MURDER.

Famous Case Overshadowed by War Comes Up For Decision.

The trial for murder of Mrs. Edwin Carman at Mineola, N. Y., called attention anew to a mystery which attracted worldwide notice in the early summer, but which has been overshadowed by the war. Briefly, the facts in the case, so far as known, are as follows:

Mrs. Edwin Carman bought a dietograph, which she had installed in her physician husband's office in Freeport, N. Y., with one end in a closet in her room on the second floor. She admitted she wished to hear what was said by his patients to him.

Two weeks later, on June 30, 1914, Mrs. Louise Bailey, a patient, was shot and killed in Dr. Carman's office. The bullet came from a revolver which was thrust through a window shattered by an unknown hand.

Dr. Carman admitted he saw a white hand appear through the hole, leveling the revolver at him. He hid behind a chair. Mrs. Bailey was instantly killed.

A box of cartridges, .38 caliber, were found in the home of Dr. Carman. The bullet that killed Mrs. Bailey was .38 caliber.

Mrs. Carman was a witness at the inquest and admitted being jealous and to have slapped the face of a nurse who was in the office of her husband at one time.

She was first indicted for manslaughter, and later this was superseded by an indictment alleging murder in the first degree.

Since the shooting and while his wife has been confined in the jail at Mineola Dr. Carman has appeared very devoted to her and has kept her supplied with fruit and flowers. He declares his belief in her innocence and that the crime was committed by a man.

The negro maid employed in the Carman home first declared that her mistress did not go downstairs on the night of the shooting, but later admitted that she came into the kitchen in a kimono, went out of doors and in a few minutes, immediately after the shot, rushed back and through the kitchen, saying to her, "Celia, go to your room, and for God's sake keep quiet."

Frank J. Farrell, a vagrant, says he was about to enter the Carman grounds when he saw a woman in a kimono at the window of the doctor's office. He says he saw her break the glass and fire the shot. Fearing to get into trouble himself, he fled, but later, after reading of the case, he came forward to tell what he knew about it.

Truce Ends the Fighting.

Naco, Ariz., Oct. 24.—A truce was declared between the Carranza garrison at Naco, Sonora, and the Villa attackers.

Pending the final solution of the peace problem by the convention at Aguas Calientes, General Benjamin Hill and Governor Maytorena will suspend hostilities. The Maytorena troops now are retiring towards a point thirty-five kilometers southward.

THE BEST STRENGTH.

There is perhaps no strength so great and abiding as that won from a resisted temptation. Every dangerous allurements is like an enchanted monster, which, being conquered, loses all his venom and changes at once into a king of great treasure, eager to make requital.—Hobbes.

Little Oddities In the European War News

French military surgeons in Lyons called for volunteers to give their blood to save the wounded soldiers from the effects of hemorrhages and had a gratifying response. Fifty persons offered themselves immediately.

On a British torpedo boat destroyer in a recent action the ship's pet monkey, evidently not relishing the noise and scurry, became terrified. He flew into the galley and climbed on the top shelf. There he hastily selected a big fish saucer and hid himself until the firing ceased.

Miss Felice Gunther, stenographer in the office of the Austro-Hungarian consulate general in New York, who has returned from an extended trip in Austria and Hungary, says that Austrian soldiers going to the front are reported to have been supplied with vials of poison to take in case of capture by the Servians to escape torture at their hands.

"The coolest thing I ever saw in action was that of a big highlander, who milked a cow under rifle and shell fire to get something for his wounded mates to drink when the water ran out," says Private Clarke of the King's Royal rifles in a letter home.

MRS. CARMAN'S TRIAL RECALLS BAILEY MURDER.

Famous Case Overshadowed by War Comes Up For Decision.

The trial for murder of Mrs. Edwin Carman at Mineola, N. Y., called attention anew to a mystery which attracted worldwide notice in the early summer, but which has been overshadowed by the war. Briefly, the facts in the case, so far as known, are as follows:

Mrs. Edwin Carman bought a dictograph, which she had installed in her physician husband's office in Freeport, N. Y., with one end in a closet in her room on the second floor. She admitted she wished to hear what was said by his patients to him.

Two weeks later, on June 30, 1914, Mrs. Louise Bailey, a patient, was shot and killed in Dr. Carman's office. The bullet came from a revolver which was thrust through a window shattered by an unknown hand.

Dr. Carman admitted he saw a white hand appear through the hole, leveling the revolver at him. He hid behind a chair. Mrs. Bailey was instantly killed.

A box of cartridges, 38 caliber, were found in the home of Dr. Carman. The bullet that killed Mrs. Bailey was 38 caliber.

Mrs. Carman was a witness at the inquest and admitted being jealous and to have slapped the face of a nurse who was in the office of her husband at one time.

She was first indicted for manslaughter, and later this was superseded by an indictment alleging murder in the first degree.

Since the shooting and while his wife has been confined in the jail at Mineola Dr. Carman has appeared very devoted to her and has kept her supplied with fruit and flowers. He declares his belief in her innocence and that the crime was committed by a man.

The negro maid employed in the Carman home first declared that her mistress did not go downstairs on the night of the shooting, but later admitted that she came into the kitchen in a kimono, went out of doors and in a few minutes, immediately after the shot, rushed back and through the kitchen, saying to her, "ella, go to your room, and for God's sake keep quiet."

Frank J. Farrell, a vagrant, says he was about to enter the Carman grounds when he saw a woman in a kimono at the window of the doctor's office. He says he saw her break the glass and fire the shot. Fearing to get into trouble himself, he fled, but later, after reading of the case, he came forward to tell what he knew about it.

Truce Ends the Fighting.

Naco, Ariz., Oct. 24.—A truce was declared between the Carranza garrison at Naco, Sonora, and the Villa attackers.

Pending the final solution of the peace problem by the convention at Aguas Calientes, General Benjamin Hill and Governor Maytorena will suspend hostilities. The Maytorena troops now are retiring towards a point thirty-five kilometers southward.

AMENDMENT NO. 11.

The Dog Tax Amendment to the State Constitution of the State of Minnesota

This amendment, says the Duluth Herald editorially, authorizes special taxes on dogs to raise a fund to reimburse farmers whose domestic animals are injured by dogs.

It should be beaten for two reasons:

First, because it is trivial, and as a constitutional amendment it is frivolous.

Second, because it would tax the city owner of a pet dog to provide a fund to pay farmers for losses caused by their neighbor's dogs. The city dog owner would pay taxes, but could get no benefit.

It should be killed as a hint to the legislature not to lumber the amendment ballot with trivial affairs.

CONSTANT STRIFE MARKS DEBATES

Disagreements Arise Between Southerners and Northerners.

DO NOT SHOW ON SURFACE.

Illustrated in Debate on Cotton Relief Measure and Pension Bills—Northern Man Offers Explanation, Saying That Lack of Two Strong Parties in the South is Largely Responsible.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—While it does not show on the surface and is not allowed to crop out in the debates, there is a constant strife between the northern and southern Democratic senators over legislation and party procedure.

Actual divisions are shown on pension legislation and on bills like that which proposes to create a retired list for surviving officers of the civil war. There is politics in these issues, for there are still enough survivors of the war, with their relatives and friends, to be a big political factor in most of the northern states.

One of the northern Democrats thus explained their differences: "We of the north have much to contend with in politics. In the south a 'nigger' and a bottle of whisky will make a campaign. Their issues are confined to only a few subjects. The race question insures Democratic victory. In our section all the big business issues are discussed and are important factors in politics."

Southern Personal Politics.

Having only one party in the south, the northern man went on to explain, there was no question about having Democratic representation from the southern states. This made the matter of politics personal with the men holding congressional seats. They acted almost solely with regard to the effect upon them in their own states. Issues raised by men who sought their seats became issues in congress, although they did not really belong in national politics. Often these proved embarrassing to northern senators, because they had to consider the effect upon their people, especially with a strong opposition party contending for political supremacy.

Felt the Sectional Cry.

The northern Democrats have felt the sectional cry that has been raised, not only in regard to the Underwood tariff, but more particularly with the emergency tariff. This was further emphasized by the injection of the cotton proposition which proposed that the government should issue bonds to buy cotton.

Nearly every northern Democrat felt that he could not endure that and was sure that his people would not. And at the same time he knew that political conditions in the south, affecting the personal popularity of southern senators, made it necessary for them to push the cotton amendment with the utmost vigor. While everybody agreed that the cotton situation in the south was deplorable, they also knew that the proposed amendment created an embarrassing political situation.

Disputed Legal Questions.

It is doubtful if lawyers are convinced that they are wrong even when the supreme court decides against them. This is especially true when cases are decided by five to four opinions or by four to four. In the last named the judgment of the court below stands, as all opinions must be overruled by a majority. Senate lawyers never will agree about a constitutional question decided by a divided court, although saying that it stands as law until reversed.

"Out Where the West Begins."

Congressman Goulden of New York, who lives in a Bronx district, paid his tribute to the west on the day the house adopted the conference report and passed the Alaska leasing bill. He quoted a poem from an unknown author, entitled "Out Where the West Begins," which was one of praise for the bright sunshine, the big heartedness of the people and which spoke of a larger humanity in that region. Coming from an eastern man, it was appreciated by the western members.

Some Think It All That.

The day the docking resolution was repealed Congressman Bryan of Washington asked Leader Underwood, "Don't you think this is an unheard of, preposterous statute which can be put up or down according to the will of the majority?"

It was all that and more in the opinion of members who have been docked and others who have been compelled to remain in Washington when they wanted to go home. What is more, although Underwood invoked it, he agreed with Bryan and said so.

Not Agreeing Much.

"I never expect to agree with everybody else and seldom with anybody else," was the way Minority Leader Mann opened a short speech in the house. "I have no criticism to make of people who disagree with me," he added, and then he went on to say that men should not indulge in personal criticism when they do not agree on measures in the house. And yet Mann fires many a personal broadside during the session.

WATCH BRINDILLA CASE.

Washington and London Deeply Interested in Seizure of Oil Ship.

If in the capture of the Brindilla, the oil tank ship formerly the Washington, the British government wishes to test neutral ownership, not alleged contraband cargo or an unneutral destination, it will be appealing to a principle of international law which Great Britain has never formally ratified. There are precedents for such a course, as when both Spain and the United States in 1898 adhered to the declaration of Paris, though neither had ratified it. The case is attracting much attention in Washington and London.

The Brindilla was a ship of the Deutsch-Amerika Petroleum company, caught in New York by the war. She was bought by the Standard Oil company under the American registry act and sent out under the American flag. Outside the three mile limit she was taken and towed to Halifax and the jurisdiction of a prize court.

The declaration of London, article

56, declares void the transfer of an enemy's ship to a neutral in war "unless it is proved that such transfer is not made in order to avoid the consequences to which an enemy's vessel, as such, is exposed." The burden of proof of good faith is put upon the owners of the Brindilla by this article.

The British commons, December, 1911, passed a naval prize act accepting the declaration of London. The lords rejected it. Yet it has passed by usage into the common law of nations, was embodied in declarations by Russia and Italy during the Tripoli war and is admitted in principle by the present belligerents. If an appeal is taken from the prize court to The Hague that tribunal is bound by the convention establishing it to decide in accord with international law, or, if no "recognized rule" exists, to follow "the general principles of justice and equity."

FILM TO TEACH SAFETY.

Railroad Systems Employ Moving Pictures to Educate Employees.

"Steve Hill's Awakening," a railroad safety story in two parts, by Marcus A. Dow, general safety agent of the New York Central lines, is a moving picture play, produced under the direction of Mr. Dow.

This play was written and produced for the New York Central lines for use in educating employees in connection with the safety work being conducted by that company. It is the intention to equip a car to be used as a theater, which will be taken over the entire system, stopping at all points where employees congregate.

The pictures will also be used in connection with large safety meetings conducted at halls or theaters in cities along the line for the benefit of both the employees and their families. The Santa Fe, Burlington and Lackawanna roads also have made arrangements to use this film.

This is the first attempt of any railroad to use a moving picture play telling a story of human interest with the principal parts played by professional actors and actresses in connection with safety work.

GOTHFRED S. SWANSON

COUNTY ATTORNEY

CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

To the Voters of Crow Wing county:

In asking for re-election as County Attorney, I desire to state that I stand squarely upon my record, and ask that you compare my record as a public officer with that of my opponent.

I was busy in District Court from the first of May until after the Primary Election, and therefore could not see you, so that the votes I received at the Election, when nominated, were not because of personal solicitation or campaign. This I greatly appreciated and thank you for your support and for the confidence you placed in me.

I believe that my two years experience as county attorney makes me better qualified to perform the duties of the office if re-elected.

In actively prosecuting blind-piggers, disorderly houses, gamblers and other violators of the law as my court record will show, I have enforced the law and performed my duty, and in doing so, may have incurred the displeasure of some. This has taken much work and effort, but I believe that it has been appreciated by those who believe in Clean Government and enforcement of the law for which I stand.

I feel that my stand for Clean, Decent Government, Enforcement of the Law, Justice to all, and Special Privileges to None will be Endorsed at the General Election November Third, because I have Confidence in the Common Citizens of Crow Wing County and Those Citizens who have the County's Future Development and Prosperity at Heart.

Very sincerely yours,

GOTHFRED S. SWANSON,
County Attorney.

FILM TO TEACH SAFETY.

Railroad Systems Employ Moving Pictures to Educate Employees.

"Steve Hill's Awakening," a railroad safety story in two parts, by Marcus A. Dow, general safety agent of the New York Central lines, is a moving picture play, produced under the direction of Mr. Dow.

This play was written and produced for the New York Central lines for use in educating employees in connection with the safety work being conducted by that company. It is the intention to equip a car to be used as a theater, which will be taken over the entire system, stopping at all points where employees congregate.

The pictures will also be used in connection with large safety meetings conducted at halls or theaters in cities along the line for the benefit of both the employees and their families. The Santa Fe, Burlington and Lackawanna roads also have made arrangements to use this film.

This is the first attempt of any railroad to use a moving picture play telling a story of human interest with the principal parts played by professional actors and actresses in connection with safety work.

GOTHFRED S. SWANSON
COUNTY ATTORNEY
CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

To the Voters of Crow Wing county:

In asking for re-election as County Attorney, I desire to state that I stand squarely upon my record, and ask that you compare my record as a public officer with that of my opponent.

I was busy in District Court from the first of May until after the Primary Election, and therefore could not see you, so that the votes I received at the Election, when nominated, were not because of personal solicitation or campaign. This I greatly appreciated and thank you for your support and for the confidence you placed in me.

I believe that my two years experience as county attorney makes me better qualified to perform the duties of the office if re-elected.

In actively prosecuting blind-piggers, disorderly houses, gamblers and other violators of the law as my court record will show, I have enforced the law and performed my duty, and in doing so, may have incurred the displeasure of some. This has taken much work and effort, but I believe that it has been appreciated by those who believe in Clean Government and enforcement of the law for which I stand.

I feel that my stand for Clean, Decent Government, Enforcement of the Law, Justice to all, and Special Privileges to None will be Endorsed at the General Election November Third, because I have Confidence in the Common Citizens of Crow Wing County and Those Citizens who have the County's Future Development and Prosperity at Heart.

Very sincerely yours,
GOTHFRED S. SWANSON,
County Attorney.

Mr. Rapelje was appointed general manager of the Northern Pacific railway to succeed G. A. Goodsell, who died, recently, the appointment becoming effective November 1. He became connected with the Northern Pacific in 1888 as conductor on the Yellowstone division of the road. While in this position he was chairman of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

In 1903 Mr. Rapelje was made trainmaster of the Yellowstone division, and in 1905 superintendent. In 1908 he was transferred to the Rocky Mountain division with headquarters at Missoula, Mont., and in 1908 to the Idaho division, with headquarters at Spokane, Wash.

In April, 1912, Mr. Rapelje went to Livingston, Mont., as general superintendent of the lines of the company between Mandan, N. D. and Paradise, where he remained until made assistant general manager May 1, 1914, with headquarters in St. Paul.

NEW METHOD OF RAISING CORN

Col. Freeman Thorp Achieves Astonishing Results in the Sandy Soil at Hubert Farm

100 BUSHELS TO THE ACRE

Col. Thorp has Given 42 Years of Study and 20 Years of Experiment to Prevent Soil Erosion

Col. Freeman Thorp's new method with corn at Hubert, Minn., produces such astonishing results that the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce sent a committee to investigate it.

They found that on the lightest sandy soil to be found in Crow Wing county continuously cropped for nine years without manure and with less than the usual amount of cultivation, standing corn husked in their presence showed more than 100 bushels to the acre, or four times the ten year average of the entire United States.

There is no doubt that the sandy soils of the Northwest will become the best in the United States for corn production, as under this new method there can be no such thing as crop failure on such lands.

Col. Thorp gave 42 years of thorough study and 20 years of practical experiment to the solution of the problem of preventing the enormous waste of soil fertility involved in the soil wash incident to the surface runoff of the rain, especially on sandy or semi-arid hill lands. He found that this waste each year exceeded the amount of soil fertility taken up by the annual crop and its prevention would more than double the annual production and the fertility of the soil would steadily increase instead of diminish.

That a thoroughly practical way has been found of preventing the surface runoff of a single drop of rain or flake of snow, and that the ordinary farmer, on the ordinary farm, with ordinary farm implements, with no more labor than ordinary farming involves, can do this is now abundantly proved on the experiment tract at Hubert in Crow Wing county.

And yet, Miss Williams is a most finished artist, and one of the brainiest little stars in filmdom. Is it brains, personality or talent which makes this girl what she is? Or is the combination of all three plus good plays? Who shall say. But here is Miss Williams in a two part mystery drama "The Spec on the Wall." She is marvelous and the play superb. Prof. Roland G. Usher, one of the foremost living authorities on international politics, in a recent interview says:

"The Germans have gone into this war with their eyes wide open and have counted all the costs. The popular notion seems to be that a blind Germany is rushing heedlessly after a mad Kaiser to certain suicide. On the contrary, the leaders of the country, with the full support of the nation, have carefully and deliberately planned and anticipated the present conflict for years, with full knowledge of the fearful losses and the enormous sacrifices that they must face, and with every confidence of final success.

"Germany expected Belgium would resist. They would have been agreeably surprised if it had not. They did not seriously expect a repetition of 1870 in France, and knew that many battles and even campaigns may be lost before the final successful outcome of the war. They knew that war with Russia and France would involve England. In fact, it is England that chiefly obstructs the realization of Pan-Germanism. They realized that Austria would be a weak sister. They knew there was danger that Italy would hang back.

"Germany figures that much as she is hurt by war herself, she makes her opponents, especially England and France, suffer more. Germany knows that her factories must be closed and that there will be want and misery throughout the country. But she can find within her own borders enough food and clothing to supply the absolute necessities of life, so that her people and armies can live and produce all the necessary munitions of war.

"So long as Germany can do that, it is not going to yield in this war for any internal reasons. Before Germany will give up her armies must be crushed, and that Germany believes impossible.

"On the other hand, the German view is that England is far from being self-sufficient. Most of her food supplies must be imported. War shuts off England from the Black sea and the Baltic, on which she depends for food and materials almost as much as on the Atlantic. Manufacturing is even more vital to England than to Germany, and war will hurt England's industry almost as severely as Germany's. Fighting in the west is thority in International Politics,

Gives German Views

Prof. Roland G. Usher, one of the foremost living authorities on international politics, in a recent interview says:

"The Germans have gone into this war with their eyes wide open and have counted all the costs. The popular notion seems to be that a blind Germany is rushing heedlessly after a mad kaiser to certain suicide. On the contrary, the leaders of the country, with the full support of the nation, have carefully and deliberately planned and anticipated the present conflict for years, with full knowledge of the fearful losses and the enormous sacrifices that they must face, and with every confidence of final success.

"Germany expected Belgium would resist. They would have been greatly surprised if it had not. They did not seriously expect a repetition of 1870 in France, and knew that many battles and even campaigns may be lost before the final successful outcome of the war. They knew that war with Russia and France would involve England. In fact, it is England that chiefly obstructs the realization of Pan-Germanism. They realized that Austria would be a weak sister. They knew there was danger that Italy would hang back.

"Germany figures that much as she is hurt by war herself, she makes her opponents, especially England and France, suffer more. Germany knows that her factories must be closed and that there will be want and misery throughout the country. But she can find within her own borders enough food and clothing to supply the absolute necessities of life, so that her people and armies can live and produce all the necessary munitions of war.

"So long as Germany can do that, it is not going to yield in this war for any internal reasons. Before Germany will give up her armies must be crushed, and that Germany believes impossible.

"On the other hand, the German view is that England is far from being self-sufficient. Most of her food supplies must be imported. War shuts off England from the Black sea and the Baltic, on which she depends for food and materials almost as much as on the Atlantic. Manufacturing is even more vital to England than to Germany, and war will hurt England's industry almost as severely as Germany's. Fighting in the west is

CHAPTER XXV.

Changeling.

In the vague, chill gray of that dull and desolate dawn, Judith stirred abruptly on the couch of a sleepless night, and with the rapidity of one who has arrived at a settled purpose after a long period of doubt and perplexity, rose and bathed and dressed herself in negligence.

In the adjoining room she could hear small, stealthy noises—the sounds made by her sister moving about and preparing against the unguessable moment when her rescue would be attempted, according to the information conveyed in that midnight message.

For chance had conspired with her insomnia to station Judith in the recess of her darkened window, idly viewing the gaunt framework of the unfinished building from an angle which, when Alan edged out along the girder, showed him plainly in silhouette against the sky.

In Judith's eyes his identity was unmistakable. She had hardly needed the night-glasses which presently she brought to bear upon him at the moment when he was laboriously inditing his message—while grim death stalked him from behind.

She had seen him throw the watch and had heard the double thump of its impact with the wall and floor of Rose's bedchamber.

And she had witnessed with wildly beating heart that duel in the air—able to surmise its outcome only from the fact that the victor spared the life of the vanquished.

The clock was striking six as she left her room: across the street workmen were streaming into the building to begin the labors of the day.

Brushing unceremoniously past the drowsy and indifferent guard in the corridor outside the door to Rose's room, Judith turned the key that remained in the lock on the outside, removed it, entered, and locked the door behind her.

Without any surprise she found her sister already dressed to the point of donning her outer garments.

Rendered half-frantic by this unexpected interruption, threatening as it did the perilous scheme that Alan had proposed, Rose greeted her sister with a countenance at once aghast and wrathful.

"What do you want?" she demanded tensely.

"To come to an understanding with you," Judith told her coolly.

"There is no understanding possible between us: you know that as well as I."

"Yet one there must be."

"I insist that you leave this room at once!"

"Insist by all means—and be damned! I may leave this room—and I may not, dear little sister. But one of us will never leave it alive."

With a start of terror, Rose crouched back from this strange, wild thing that wore the very shape and semblance of herself.

"What do you mean? You cannot mean to murder me in cold blood, Judith?"

"Not I!" Judith laughed harshly. "But, since it has pleased Destiny to decree that we must both love one man—let Destiny decide between us and bear the blame of murder!"

"Judith!"

"One moment!" Crossing to a side table, Judith took up a glass from a tray that held a silver water-pitcher, and returned with it to the table that occupied the middle of the floor. At the same time she opened a hand till then fast clenched and disclosed a small blue bottle with a red label shrieking the warning "POISON!"

"Strychnine," she explained composedly, "in solution." And emptied the bottle into the glass.

A measure of courage returned to Rose. "Do you expect to be able to make me drink that?" she demanded contemptuously.

"Not I—but Destiny, if it will! See here. From a pocket of her dressing-gown Judith produced a sealed deck of playing cards. "Let these declare the will of Destiny toward us. I will break the seal, shuffle the cards, and deal," she explained, suiting action to word.

"The one who gets the trey of hearts will drain that glass. Is it a bargain?"

"Never! Oh, now I know that you are altogether mad!"

"Perhaps. Are you ready?" And Judith made as if to deal.

"No—never! I tell you I refuse!" Rose chattered, terrified.

"You dare not refuse."

"Why?"

"Because of this."

Whipping a small revolver from another pocket of her dressing-gown, Judith placed it on the table, ready to her hand.

"You will shoot me if I do not consent?"

"Not you—but him. If you refuse, little sister, I will shoot Alan Law dead when he comes to keep his appointment with you."

"Ah!" Rose cried in mingled fright and amazement. "How did you find out?"

"Never mind. Is it a bargain, now, about the trey of hearts? Remember, I shall keep my word about this pistol."

With a shudder Rose bowed her head.

"Deal," she muttered fearfully, "and may God judge between us!"

One by one she stripped the cards from the top of the deck, dealing first to Rose, then to herself.

One by one they fluttered to the table on either side the glass of poison, and fell face uppermost.

The trey of hearts fell to Judith.

There was an instant of silent dread, ended by Rose, as Judith's hand moved steadily toward the glass.

"Judith!" she implored. "Don't—I beg of you—I didn't mean it—I take back my consent—"

"Too late!" said Judith, lifting the glass and eyeing its contents with a strange smile.

"Judith! you cannot mean to drink it?"

"Can't I, though?" the other laughed mirthlessly. "Just watch me!"

With a strangled cry Rose covered her face with her hands to shut out the sight, stood momentarily swaying, and dropped to the floor in a complete faint.

Delaying only to recognize this phenomena with a pitying smile for the weakness of spirit that caused it, Judith's glance darted through the window and saw that which caused her to stay her hand an instant longer.

On the topmost tier of girders of the building opposite, Alan Law stood amid a little knot of amused and animated laborers, one foot in the great steel hook of the hoisting tackle, both hands clasping the chain that linked it to the gigantic block.

And as Judith stared, he smiled at something said by one of those about him, looked back, and waved a hand to some person invisible.

Immediately the arm began to lift, the tackle to move slowly through the blocks. Very gently he was swung up and outward.

With a cry Judith flung the poison heedlessly from her, leaped across the room, and snatched up the street garments Rose had dropped at her sister's entrance.

In another moment she was struggling madly into them.

Before the shadow of Alan, clinging to the hook and chain, fell athwart the

"Not I—but Destiny, if it will!"

window, she was dressed and clambered out upon the sill.

"Sweetheart! My bravest little woman!"

The hook hung steadily within six inches of the window-ledge. Alan extended his arm.

"Nothing to fear, except lest I hold you too tight, dear one!"

Without a word Judith set her foot beside his in the hook, surrendered to his embrace, and closed her eyes.

Immediately they were swung away from the window, over toward the opposite sidewalk, and gently lowered to the street.

"Maybe this isn't a good scheme!" Alan exclaimed in the innocence of his heart. "But I think it is. And those workmen think it a great lark—I told them the simple truth, you see: that we were eloping!"

By way of answer Judith breathed only a word of tenderness.

And that instant the hook paused and Alan stepped off upon the sidewalk.

"Safe and sound—and not a soul over there the wiser as yet!" he declared with a derisive nod toward the home of Trine. "Come along. Here's a limousine waiting. In twenty minutes we'll be at the ferry, in forty over in Jersey, within an hour married, within four hours safe at sea!"

SUBSTITUTION.

The imitator is like the counterfeit. He enters the field of business with a cheaper, lower grade article of merchandise, made as a substitute for the genuine, and generally sold at a cheaper price, arguing, as usual, that it is "just as good." The dealer is persuaded to handle it on glowing promises of enormous profits—much larger than the regular legitimate profit which is made on the genuine article. The imitator succeeds in playing upon man's natural avarice, places his goods on sale with the dealer, and instructs him to take advantage of the public by substituting the false article for the genuine at every opportunity. You can be pretty sure that whenever you ask for a well-known product and the dealer tells you he has something else that's just as good, or even better, the dealer is going to make a greater profit on that article than the one you call for, and in nine cases out of ten you will get a much inferior article.

Some buyers are easily imposed upon and this encourages the "get-rich-quick" schemers to increase their substitutions. This also discourages the legitimate manufacturer who is putting out articles of merchandise that represent honest value to the consumer. Where a man has devoted years of his life in perfecting an article that he knows cannot be excelled in quality; where he has spent thousands of dollars in advertising his goods; and where these goods have been giving universal satisfaction for a long time, great injury results by permitting substitution to rob him of his market and at the same time rob the consumer by selling him a doubtful article at practically the same price.

There is no law through which such evil practices can be stopped. The sole remedy is for the legitimate manufacturer to ask the public direct not to patronize dealers who try to substitute a different brand of goods for the kind wanted. All first class dealers know that it is poor business to try to substitute something else for the article wanted.

There is a Certain-teed dealer in your locality who will be pleased to give you further information about our goods and will quote you reasonable prices. If the goods are made by us, remember—we stand behind them.

THOUGH YOU ESCAPE
WITH YOUR LIFE

If fire occurs at your place, you will not find it sweet if the flames leave you penniless. All your remaining days will be filled with regret that you hadn't taken out insurance when you could. Fire is just as likely to happen to you as to anybody else. Be wise and have us insure you today. Then fire will not spell ruin for you.
